

WINDS and BRASS

Coordinator: Tatiana Krol

Adjudicator: Keith Todd

Keith Todd has been playing trombone since 11 years old. With an early start in life playing the piano (which he still plays and composes on), he gravitated to the trombone in his elementary Band program, and later studied with trombone greats, Robert Bricker, and Thomas Eadie in British Columbia, Canada.

After completing a Bachelor of Music and Education degrees at UVic, he performed and subbed with the Okanagan and Victoria Symphony Orchestras and is currently principal trombone with the Symphony of the Kootenays, based in Cranbrook, B.C. Keith has performed and recorded with other musical greats such as Gary Guthman, Donnie Clark, Louise Rose, Melody Diachun, Bob Hamilton, Doug Stephenson, Tony Ferraro, Claire Ness, Lonnie Powell, and many others. He has played with Major Funk, The Problematic Orchestra, Claire Ness and the Swingsets, Hornography, Funkometry, Paris Pick and the Pricks, What It Is, Rick Lingard's Chicago Tribute Band, Bessie and the Back Eddies with Bessie Wapp and Clinton Swanson, to name a few.

Keith currently directs the Playmor Junction Big Band, based in South Slokan, B.C. He has performed in countless jazz and show groups on stages and in festivals at Victoria, the Okanagan, Vancouver, Terrace, Whitehorse, and Nelson, B.C.

Keith has written and arranged for concert, jazz band, and horn sections for the various horn bands he's played in. He recently retired from 36 years of teaching elementary and secondary music in Terrace, Nelson, Whitehorse, and Castlegar. Keith resides in Nelson B.C. where he actively performs, composes, and directs musical groups.
